

Visiting Research Track

Appointees to this track must have employment responsibilities with another institution of higher education and are usually on leave from that institution. (e.g. here for a six month sabbatical.) Visiting Research Faculty appointments indicates that the individual is working for a limited portion of his/her time (part-time) on a research project housed in the University of Michigan Medical School.

Visiting Research Assistant Professor: Candidates who are appointed or promoted to this rank must have an established record of publications in peer-reviewed journals in which they are a primary or senior author. Participation in national and international professional meetings is usually present. Candidates for Visiting Research Assistant Professor will have evidence of extramural funding (often mentored K awards and/or foundation grants); with a strong potential for independent “RO1 NIH type” proposals. Contributions to education and Institutional citizenship are typical. Candidates at this rank typically have documented teaching and mentoring within the context of one or more research programs with postdoctoral fellows, junior research colleagues, or students at any level.
