

Research Scientist Track

Research Scientist Track faculty are typically part of a scientific team or have achieved independence in a research program and have demonstrated excellence in initiation, direction and completion of research projects. A record of peer-reviewed publications is expected

Associate Research Scientist: Appointment or promotion to this rank requires a growing national and/or international scholarly reputation. Independence in research is not required, but may be developing as represented by a substantial record of collaborative funding as a team scientist (usually as co-investigator). There should be a strong and sustained record of publication in peer-reviewed journals, including a number of first-author and/or senior-author publications and evidence that this accomplishment will continue. A candidate for this rank should have a record of participation in or presentation at professional meetings. Appointment or promotion to Associate Research Scientist signals the passage into medical academia's senior rank.
