

Adjunct Research Track

Adjunct Research Faculty appointments are made when an individual's primary employment responsibilities lie outside the University. This appointment indicates that the individual is working for a limited portion of his/her time (part-time) on a research project housed in the University of Michigan Medical School.

Adjunct Research Professor: Appointment and promotion to this highest rank in the Research Track requires an internationally recognized record of continued excellence in research. An Adjunct Research Professor will have a substantial and continued record of first-author and/or senior-author publications in peer-reviewed journals. An Adjunct Research Professor will have served as principal or co-principal investigator on center grants, major grants (e.g. NIH R01) or equivalent and demonstrate a maintained record of such funding. National and international lectures, seminars, study sections, and ad hoc reviews are expected of an Adjunct Research Professor. Adjunct Research Professors are expected to perform mentoring, supervising, and laboratory or research based teaching in a number of venues. Institutional citizenship is expected of an Adjunct Research Professor.
